From our Clients

The UCI instructors are amazing to work with -- they tweak the lessons as necessary, try new approaches to see what works best, and the delivery systems are state-of-the-art. That quality of online education just isn't available anywhere else.

-Lara Silver,
Associate Director, North America Marketing at Thermo Fisher Scientific

UCI is a tier 1 university with a well-deserved reputation for strong quantitative programs and courses, we're excited about the partnership's potential.

UC Irvine's Division of Continuing Education has been training working professionals since 1962. We have perfected the creation and delivery of relevant, practical, and targeted programs that yield measurable results, enterprise wide. For the last 20 years, we have conducted on-site corporate training, locally and around the world. Our training is designed so employees can start using it on the job immediately. We use hands-on, experiential learning techniques, interwoven with academic principles, and reinforced with constant activities and exercises.
